

Ford S-Max

High and low-pressure service connection

In the above-mentioned vehicle, both air-conditioning system connections are reached through the engine compartment.

The engine cover must be removed for the low-pressure side to be connected.

The high-pressure connection is near the right-hand headlight in a cavity and can only be reached with a straight quick-action connection.

The service connector 8PS 351 327-731 can be used for all hoses with a  $\frac{3}{8}$  inch female thread.
